This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

THIS volume of "Memorials" has been prepared with the design of preserving, in a convenient form, the most important facts which could be ascertained respecting ELDER JOHN WHITE and his descendants. It is presumed that those of his descendants now living, who bear the name of White, have a desire to learn the history of the families through which may be traced their descent from their first ancestor in this country. They may wish, also, to place in the hands of those who are to succeed them, a record, more enduring than tradition, which may perpetuate the memory of former generations, and of the times in which they lived.

PLAN AND ARRANGEMENT. A separate section is commonly given to each family named WHITE, the sections being numbered consecutively, through the volume. The generations are divided from each other, and the families in each generation are arranged in the order of seniority in the line of descent. The running titles of the left hand pages show to which generation the heads of the families belong, and those of the right hand pages, from which son of Elder John White they are descended.

The name of the head of a family, at the beginning of a section, is followed by a biographical notice, introducing the following particulars in the history of his life, so far as they could be ascertained: The place and date of his birth; dates of marriage and death, with age at death; occupation; principal residence; public offices held; and any other facts which seemed worthy of mention. The figures in parenthesis, after the name of his father, refer back to the section, in the preceding generation, in which an account of the father may be found. The names of the husband and wife are printed in small capitals. The account of the wife is intended to show her full name; dates of birth and death, with age at death; her residence before marriage; name of her father, and maiden name of her mother.

The remainder of the section, in smaller type, contains an account of the family of the person whose name stands at the beginning of the section. The names of his children are printed in italics, and are arranged and numbered in the order of birth, the date of birth, or of baptism, being uniformly given, if known. On the right side of the page, against the name of each son who had a family, is commonly placed a number in parenthesis, referring forward to the section of that number, in the next generation, in which an account of that son and of his family is given. If there is no reference number opposite a name, the history of the person named follows directly after the record of birth. Those who died in infancy, or unmarried, and frequently the males who left no sons to perpetuate the name of White, are noticed only in connection with this record of their birth.

In the second generation, a separate section is allotted to each daughter of Elder John White. In the later generations, the account which is given of a female who married, (unless she married a White,) and of her husband and family, follows the record of her birth. This account is designed to show the dates of her marriage and death, the name of her husband, his residence and occupation, date of his death, and his age at death. Also, the names of her children,—which are printed in common type, and are numbered consecutively,—with dates of birth, marriage, and death; the names of their wives and husbands, with dates of death of these, and their ages at death. Other facts respecting the married females and their families are sometimes introduced, particularly in the earlier generations. With a few exceptions, the lines of descent from the female members of the Family are traced no farther than to their children. If the names of grandchildren are mentioned, they are printed in italics.

The several marriages of a person who was more than once married, are designated by the numbers, "1st," "2d," &c., placed directly after the word "married," or after "m.," the abbreviation of married. The maiden surname of a married female is sometimes placed in a parenthesis, between her christian name and the surname she acquired by marriage. There are numerous references from one family to another, each family being designated by the number of the section in which an account of it is given.

The foregoing explanations will be more readily understood by referring to some section in the volume; as to section 10, page 37, containing an account of Ensign Daniel White and his family; or to section 14, page 42, of Captain Daniel White and family.

The biographical sketches are designed to present only the leading facts of each one's private history and public life. The titles by which men were commonly addressed in conversation, and which almost uniformly appear in connection with their names, on the public records, are here given to those belonging to the first six generations. The names of men who belong to the later generations are printed with their professional and honorary titles; but less care has been taken to specify the offices they have filled. If too much prominence seems to be given to titles and offices, it should be remembered that, in the case of many persons who lived in former times, we have no other means of judging of character, than the record of the public services to which they were called by those who knew them best. Many of those who moved in the more retired walks of life were, doubtless, worthy and useful citizens; but the materials for a notice of their lives have not been found.

Delineations of character have been but rarely attempted, since it would have been impossible to render equal justice to the memory of all. The virtues ascribed to many members of the Family, by their surviving kindred, and sometimes sketched with delicacy by the hand of affection, are a gratifying testimony that many individuals of the later generations have been not unworthy descendants of an honored ancestry.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION. The facts contained in this volume have been drawn from the records of the Colonies of Connecticut and Massachusetts, from the records of Probate Courts and the Registries of Deeds, from town and church records, from inscriptions on tombstones, from family records and oral statements, and from the replies to more than six hundred letters of inquiry. Besides the labors of those who have aided his researches, the compiler has visited about forty towns, and has personally examined more than sixty sets of public records. A few particulars have been taken from Goodwin's "Genealogical Notes," and other genealogical works, to which reference is occasionally made. Such works, however, have been chiefly useful as guides to the original sources of information, which have been consulted, if practicable, and by which the statements found in those works have been verified, or, as in a few cases, corrected.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE WORK. The difficulties attending the preparation of such Memorials need not be explained to those who have undertaken similar labors. But, as very few of those who will consult this volume are aware of these difficulties, it seems proper to state some of the reasons why it is impracticable to secure completeness and perfect accuracy.

The history of the first four or five generations is as complete as it could be made by a diligent searching of the public records, which are the principal sources of information respecting the early families. But the facts sought for were not all recorded. The early records of some towns and probate courts, and of many churches, are lost. Besides these defects, there are occasional discrepancies. The town record does not always agree with the church record. Still more frequently, one of these is found to differ from a family record, or from an inscription on a tombstone. In such cases, that name, or date, has been selected, which seemed to rest upon the highest authority. In a few instances, one of the different dates assigned to an event, or a date supplied by conjecture, has been placed in brackets, with a mark of interrogation.

The labor of perfecting the history of the later generations has been much increased by the general neglect of the public registration of families, for the last sixty or eighty years. During this period, the families of the race have become numerous, and have also been widely separated by emigration. A very large proportion of those who left the homes of their fathers, have been traced to their new homes, by following out the hints gathered from the descendants of their kindred who remained, from land and probate records, and from old family papers. It is believed that the families living in the present century are more fully represented on the following pages than is usual in works of this character.

Most of the members of the Family, who have been applied to for information, have responded promptly and intelligently. The indifference and carelessness of others have been the chief embarrassments experienced in the prosecution of the work, and the principal causes of its deficiencies and errors. Some persons have made no reply to letters of inquiry until several months had elapsed, while others have paid no attention to repeated applications. In a few instances, a ready promise has never been fulfilled. Letters have sometimes been filled with materials not asked for, and of no value, while definite inquiries that had been made were entirely neglected. Many families have no family records, and some errors doubtless occur in the statements given from memory. In more than one instance in which a person has named the wrong year, in giving the date of his birth, the error has been suspected by the compiler, and has been corrected by further correspondence.

These explanations are made in order that those persons who do not find the account of their own kindred as complete as they expected, may understand that all reasonable effort has been made to secure fullness and accuracy. The compiler has carefully examined the records within his reach, and the various manuscripts furnished him, and has diligently sought for information from the sources to which he has been referred. It has been his first and constant aim, to make this a reliable book. But, for the errors and omissions of recorders and correspondents, he is not responsible. Manifest errors in the spelling of names have been corrected; but many peculiarities have been retained. It is hardly possible to avoid making some mistakes in deciphering and transcribing so many thousand names and dates, many of which are found in manuscripts not remarkable for legibility. A few typographical errors are corrected in the Appendix, and perhaps others have escaped detection. A list of corrections and additions is also given, prepared from information received too late for use in its proper place.

ABBREVIATIONS. Besides the abbreviations in common use, the following are frequently employed in this volume: b. for born; bap. for baptized; m. for married; pub. for published; unm. for unmarried; wid. for widow; fam. for family; d. for died; æ. for aged; dau. for daughter; prob. for probably; res. for resided; rem. for removed; grad. for graduated; and Coll. for College. The names of towns are frequently abbreviated, or are represented by their initial letters, when the full name has been given just previously. It should be observed that the same place may be designated by several different names. "Middletown, Upper Houses," the home of Captain Nathaniel White, was afterwards sometimes called "Upper Middletown," and is now the town of "Cromwell." Those of his descendants who settled in "East Middletown," afterwards the town of "Chatham," lived in that part of Chatham which is now the town of "Portland." Similar changes have occurred in the names of many other places mentioned in this book.

OLD STYLE AND NEW STYLE. Previous to 1753, the year, in England and her colonies, commenced on the 25th of March. Thus, the birth of Elizabeth, daughter of Captain Nathaniel White, recorded, "March 7, 1654," was doubtless in the month which preceded April, 1655. The date is therefore printed, (page 27,) "March 7, 1655." The New Style having been adopted in Catholic countries in 1582, there arose the custom of sometimes using a double date for that part of the year between the 1st of January and the 25th of March. Two methods were in use: the one, expressing the year thus: "1645–6;"

or, "1660: 61," as in the second line of page 29: the other, which was more common, placing the last figures of the date in the form of a fraction. Thus, the marriage of Daniel White, (page 49,) is recorded, "Jan. 19, 170$\frac{1}{2}$."

In this volume the year is intended to be conformed to the New Style. Some errors may have been made in doing this, as the practice of recorders was not uniform, particularly for a half century before the New Style was adopted. No correction has been made in the day of the month. To be strictly accurate, ten days must be added to dates before the first of March, 1700, and eleven days to dates between that time and the third of September, 1752. In some cases, however, events occurring previous to 1752 were recorded after that year, and according to New Style.

A few fac-similes of autographs are given, at the expense of individuals particularly interested in their insertion.

The Table of Heads of Families, following this Introduction, is arranged upon a plan not found in other works of this character. It offers a help for tracing out, and keeping in the memory, the line of one's ancestry, and for gaining a comprehensive view of the whole circle of kindred. This Table, and the copious Indexes at the close of the volume, afford all needful facilities to those who may consult these "Memorials."

This volume, in memory of Elder John White and his Descendants, is the fruit of a purpose long cherished by Mr. NORMAN WHITE, of New York, who became interested, many years since, in the history of his ancestors, and collected, from various sources, a large amount of information respecting different branches of the Family. The present completion of the design then formed is largely due to his continued interest and liberality. Besides contributing much to the value of the work, by the constant attention given to it in all its stages of progress, he has borne about one-third of the expense of preparing and publishing this volume, thus enabling it to be offered to other members of the Family at a price considerably less than its actual cost.

The biographical notices of Elder John White, and of his son, Captain Nathaniel White, were principally prepared by HENRY WHITE, Esq., of New Haven, Conn., who had also been long interested in collecting facts relating to his ancestors, and who has, in addition to liberal contributions, devoted much time to assisting in the preparation of this volume. A few of the briefer sketches were furnished by him, as well as the Extracts from English Records, in the Appendix, and most of the facts given respecting the descendants of Captain John White, of the fourth generation. He has also made many valuable suggestions, during the progress of the work.

The history of those early families that lived in Middletown, Conn., and the neighboring towns, was originally furnished by Mr. EBENEZER B. WHITE, of Portland, Conn., whose more recent indefatigable researches have left little to be hoped for, from any further examination of records in that vicinity. He has also aided in gathering the history of many families in other places, and has thrown light upon some obscure points, by his ingenious conjectures.

The memorials of so extensive a Family can not be prepared without the assistance of many of its members. The present work owes much of its completeness to the numerous descendants of John White who have collected the history of those branches of the Family to which they respectively belong, and have thus deserved the gratitude of all who may seek for information in these pages.

The compiler would also express his obligations to SYLVESTER JUDD, Esq., of Northampton, Mass., the veteran genealogist of the valley of the Connecticut; to Rev. LAVIUS HYDE, of Bolton, Conn.; to Mr. D. WILLIAMS PATTERSON, of West Winsted, Conn.; and to many other persons not connected with the Family, for varied assistance in the preparation of this work.

It is proper to acknowledge the liberality of those members of the Family who promptly subscribed for several copies of the Memorials, thereby encouraging and securing the publication of the book.

In conclusion, the compiler would express the hope that these "Memorials" may contribute to inspire the living with a reverence for their worthy ancestors, and to perpetuate the virtues which made them worthy of commemoration.

VERNON, CONN., March, 1860.

A TABLE OF HEADS OF FAMILIES.

This Table contains only the names of those men, surnamed White, of whose children some definite account is given in this volume.

Figures prefixed to a name show the number of the Section in which an account of the Family is given; and figures following the name show the page on which the section commences. The figures in the left-hand column refer back to the names of the fathers of the persons against whose names these figures stand. In a few instances, the same numbers serve both purposes of reference.

By means of this Table, lines of descent may be very readily traced, and degrees of affinity ascertained.

JOHN WHITE

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

First Generation and Children.

1. ELDER JOHN WHITE was one of the first settlers of Cambridge in Massachusetts, of Hartford in Connecticut, and of Hadley in Massachusetts. Neither the time nor the place of his birth is known. From the ages of his children, and the time of his death, it may reasonably be inferred that he was born between the years 1595 and 1605. His connection with the Reverend Thomas Hooker and his church renders it probable that he had known and valued Hooker's ministry in England. Chelmsford,—the county-town of Essex County,—about thirty miles north-east of London, was the seat of Hooker's labors; and it has been plausibly conjectured, by historians, that the company who attached themselves to him were mostly from Chelmsford and its vicinity. An examination of the parish register of Chelmsford shows that the name of White was a common one in that town; but there is no satisfactory evidence connecting the subject of this sketch with any of the families named in the parish register. Some extracts from the public records at Chelmsford are given in the Appendix to this volume.

The first certain knowledge we have of John White is as a passenger in the ship Lyon, Captain Peirce, which sailed from England about the twenty-second of June, 1632, and arrived at Boston, in Massachusetts, on Sunday, the sixteenth of September following, after a voyage of eight weeks from the Land's End; although the passengers had been twelve weeks aboard. They had five days of east wind and fog, but no disaster. There were one hundred and twenty-three passengers, of whom fifty were children, all in health. The names of thirty-three adult male passengers are reported, including the name of John White. He was doubtless accompanied by his family, which then consisted of his wife and at least two children. Many of the passengers belonged to the company of the Reverend Thomas Hooker, who was prevented from coming with them by the attempts of his enemies to arrest him, but who came in the following year. About a month before the arrival of the Lyon, that part of Mr. Hooker's company which had come over before, and had located at Braintree, removed to Cambridge, then called Newtown; that township having been assigned to them, by the General Court of Massachusetts, for their settlement. There, at Cambridge, our John White found his first home in this western world. His homelot, with his dwelling house, was on the street then called Cow-Yard Row. This homelot contained about three-quarters of an acre of land, and was early allotted to him, together with about thirty acres of farming lands. On the 5th of August, 1633, three-quarters of an acre more, near his homelot, was granted to him by the town, for a cow-yard. "Gore Hall," the beautiful library building of Harvard University, probably now graces this cow-yard. If not on the identical site, it is, beyond a doubt, very near to it. The location and quantity of his allotments of land indicate that, in his contribution to the common stock of the settlement, he was in a middle place; neither among the wealthier nor the poorer class. It is a fair inference from this fact that his condition in England, as to property, was an easy one, and that no necessity of outward circumstances drove him from his comfortable English home to the privations and perils of a wilderness.

He was admitted a freeman of Massachusetts on the 4th of March, 1633. In February, 1635, the town of Cambridge made its first election of a board of seven men "to do the whole business of the town." These officers were afterwards called "Townsmen," and "Selectmen." John White was one of the number chosen. His associates were John Haynes, Simon Bradstreet, John Talcott, William Westwood, William Wadsworth, and probably James Olmsted; all of them prominent and influential men.

About this time, Mr. Hooker and his people began to feel straitened in their accommodations, and determined to find a new home, with more room for their friends whom they were still expecting from England, and for the full enjoyment of their religious privileges. They selected the valley of the Connecticut, and having obtained a reluctant consent from the government of Massachusetts, which appreciated their influence and enterprise, they began immediate preparations for removal. A new company, which arrived in 1635, with the Rev. Thomas Shepard for their minister, purchased the estates and improvements of Mr. Hooker's company, and continued the settlement of Cambridge. John White sold to Nicholas Danforth, on the 20th of October, 1635, his house and homelot, with most of his outlands; and on the 30th of May, 1636, another parcel of meadow and pasture. In this last deed, of May 30th, he describes himself, by anticipation, as "of the new towne upon Quinetacquet River," and the lands which he conveys, as "in Newtowne in the Massachusetts." On the 1st of March, 1642, he conveyed to Nathaniel Sparrowhawke a house and seven acres of land, on the south side of Charles River; probably the last parcel of his Cambridge "accommodation."

In June, 1636, the main body of the company, with whom, most probably, was our John White with his family, effected their removal to the Connecticut. A vivid idea of what he and his companions experienced in this migration is best obtained from the graphic but simple narrative of the historian, Trumbull:—"About the beginning of June, Mr. Hooker, Mr. Stone, and about a hundred men, women and children, took their departure from Cambridge, and travelled more than a hundred miles through a hideous and trackless wilderness to Hartford. They had no guide but their compass; made their way over mountains, through swamps, thickets, and rivers, which were not passable but with great difficulty. They had no cover but the heavens, nor any lodgings but those which simple nature afforded them. They drove with them a hundred and sixty head of cattle, and by the way subsisted on the milk of their cows. Mrs. Hooker was borne through the wilderness upon a litter. The people generally carried their packs, arms, and some utensils. They were nearly a fortnight on their journey. This adventure was the more remarkable, as many of this company were persons of figure, who had lived, in England, in honor, affluence, and delicacy, and were entire strangers to fatigue and danger."

In the Records of Hartford John White appears as one of the original proprietors. His allotments consisted—as nearly as can be determined from the records—of his house lot, containing about two acres, of about forty acres of meadow, about thirty-two acres of upland, ten acres of swamp, and one hundred and fifty acres of upland at Hockanum, east of the Great River. Of one hundred original proprietors, there were only eighteen whose share was larger than his. His homelot was on the east side of what is now called "Governor Street," formerly "Cole Street," and was about ten rods south of the Little River. The present name of this street was given to it from the circumstance that four of the original proprietors whose homelots were on this street, and within a stone's throw of each other, became Governors of Connecticut. John White's house was next to that of Governor Hopkins, and near to that of Governor Wyllys. The famous Charter Oak, already past its maturity, and beginning in its decay to construct the hollow which preserved the Charter of Connecticut from the grasp of its enemies, stood on the lot of Governor Wyllys; and its lengthening shadows, as the evening sun went down, rested on John White's dwelling.

At Hartford he was again called into public service. In 1642 he was chosen one of the selectmen of the town,—or "orderers," as these officers were at first called,—and again in 1646, in 1651, and in 1656. His name also appears frequently on the records of the Courts, as a juror, or as an arbitrator in the settlement of private differences.

Of his private life but little can be known. He was probably a farmer, gaining a support for his growing family by the practice of industry and frugality. The history of his children shows that they were trained to these virtues, and also that, amid the many cares resting upon him, he did not fail to secure for them a good education. He maintained a respectable standing as to property, and had some share in those early enterprises which encouraged the settlement of other towns. The records of Middletown show that on the 24th day of May, 1653, "John White Sen^{r} had granted to him thirty acres of upland, and joining to his homelot, being his proportion in Soheags fields." At the same time he was granted "his second and third divisions at Wongonk." The early records of Middletown are partially lost, and do not show the amount of his proprietary interest there, nor how long he retained it.

Soon after the death of the Reverend Mr. Hooker, in 1647, dissensions arose in the church at Hartford, between the Reverend Mr. Stone and Elder Goodwin. The exact points of difference between the parties are now somewhat obscure. It is supposed that Elder Goodwin and his supporters were zealously opposed to any relaxation of those requirements for a participation in church privileges, which they claimed that Mr. Hooker had taught and enforced. Several Councils were held upon the subject; but harmony was not restored. At length, the supporters of Elder Goodwin's views, among whom was John White, determined to found a new settlement on the Connecticut, above Springfield, where they might have room to follow out and enjoy their principles. On the 18th of April, 1659, sixty persons, from Hartford and Wethersfield, signed the agreement to remove to Hadley. The place of John White's name, as the fifth on the list, indicates that he was among the leaders of that important movement. At the same time, William Westwood, Richard Goodman, William Lewis, John White, and Nathaniel Dickinson were chosen to go and lay out homelots. The town record of Hadley commences with a record of these transactions, and, after mentioning the appointment of this committee, thus proceeds: "The plantation being begun by them and some others of the Ingagers, the rest of the Ingagers that remained at Hartford and Wethersfield, with those that were come up to Inhabit at the said plantation, did upon the ninth of November, at Hartford, and about the said time at Wethersfield, and at the said plantation, chuse by vote William Westwood, Nathaniel Dickinson, Samuel Smith, Thomas Standley, John White, Richard Goodman, to order all publick occasions that conscerns the good of that plantation for the yeare Insueing." This is called on the margin of the record, "First choice of Townsmen;" though it is plain that this was a voluntary agreement among the proprietors of the new plantation, rather than a legal organization.

Thus were laid the foundations of Hadley. It was the frontier settlement of that day, looking out toward the north, west, and east, on the boundless forest and its savage Indian occupants. John White's share in the common enterprise was represented by £150, the largest share being represented by £200. His homelot was on the east side of Hadley Street and is thus described in the town record: "One houselot containing Eight acres more or lesse as it lyes. Bounded by the land of Peter Tillton South, by the land granted to Thomas Standlye North, abutting West against the comon streete and East against the woods; being in Bredth Sixteene rod and in length Eightie." A part of this homelot is now occupied by one of his descendants, having never been alienated from the family. He had also a large allotment of outlands. During his residence in Hadley, a large share of his time was given to the interests of the prosperous town. His name is very frequently found on the committees appointed to lay out lands for division among the proprietors, and on committees for laying out highways, or for doing other business incidental to a new settlement. After the town was legally organized, he was chosen one of the selectmen in 1662, in 1663, and in 1665. He also twice served the town, in 1664 and in 1669, as Representative—or Deputy, as it was then styled—to the General Court or Legislature of Massachusetts, sitting in good service to the churches. In 1676, and in 1677, he and his eldest son, Nathaniel, then of Middletown, were members of the council called to heal the difficulty which had long troubled the ancient church in Windsor; and the final recommendation of the council, with the autograph signatures of its members, may be seen in the archives of the State, at Hartford.

John White was married in England, a few years before he came to Massachusetts. The christian name of his wife was MARY; but nothing is known respecting her, except that she was living in March, 1666. She died before her husband, probably after his return to Hartford.

His will names the six following children, two or three of whom were born in England.

The year of Nathaniel's birth is derived from his age at death, as given on his tombstone; the birth of Jacob is recorded at Hartford. The ages of the other children can not be exactly determined.

The life of John White was prolonged to a good old age, and in the winter of 1683–4 he rested from his labors. The exact time of his death is not known; but it must have occurred between the 17th of December, 1683, the date of his will, and the 23d of January, 1684, the date of the inventory of his estate. He lived to see all his children married, and to hold in his arms his children's children, to the third and fourth generations. Of his children, only three sons and one daughter survived him: two of these sons, with John, who died before him, were the heads of their tribes, and transmitted his name and principles to succeeding generations.

His will is recorded, and is on file, in the Probate Office at Hartford. The following is a copy of the original document, which is in the hand-writing of the principal witness.

The Last Will and Testament of Mr. John White, of Hartford.

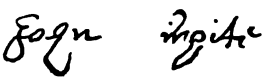
This was declared by John White senior to be his last will & Testament the seventeenth day of December, 1683, in presence of

Caleb Watson,
Mary Watson."

JOHN his W mark. WHITE sen^{r} L. S.

His will was made when the extreme feebleness of old age and disease forbade him to write his own name. The following is a fac-simile of his signature to the recommendation of the council already referred to, in the year 1677. The letter h was made with a downward stroke, as was common in former times.



The Inventory of his estate is dated Jan. 23, 1683, and amounts to £190. 9s. It contains nothing of particular interest, and is omitted. He had given away a part of his property during his lifetime.

The age and character of our John White, as well as the number of his descendants, justly entitle him to the appellation of Patriarch. The controlling power of religion over him is seen in his forsaking the comforts of his English home, and encountering the privations and perils of a wilderness, that he might help to maintain what he considered to be a true church, and might enjoy the pure worship of God and the teachings of his faithful ministers.

To the conscientiousness and zeal of the Puritan, he added the enterprise and daring of the Pioneer. Ever ready to forsake his old home and make for himself a new one, when the interests of truth and religion called, the Newtowne of Massachusetts was cheerfully exchanged for the Newtowne of Connecticut; and this last, again, for the frontier post of Hadley. And when he could serve the same cause with greater usefulness in his old home, we find him again at Hartford, with his harness on, and ready to labor, even in the feebleness of age.

His good sense and sound judgment are attested by the nature of the services which his fellow-citizens sought from him. Each of the three important towns in which he lived required his aid in the management of its prudential affairs. The capacity to discharge the duties of a townsman as well as those of a representative to the colonial legislature, was, in that day, an indispensable pre-requisite to the appointment.

The office of ruling elder in the church, which he held during the last ten or twelve years of his life, was one of great influence and importance. There was usually but one ruling elder in each church. His office was designed to relieve the teaching elder, or pastor, of a considerable part of the labor, responsibility, and anxiety attending the government and discipline of the church. It required a grave, discreet, and reliable man, one who had earned a good report of those without and those within the church. Such a one, in all respects furnished for his work, was our John White.

To be the descendant of one whose qualifications caused him to be called to these various duties in the state and in the church, and who appears to have discharged them well, is a matter of just pride. His descendants may safely and abundantly honor the ancestor in whose footsteps they may so safely walk.

Second Generation and Children.

2. MARY WHITE, daughter of Elder John, (1) was born in England, a few years before the family emigrated to Massachusetts. She died in Hartford, Conn., probably in the early part of the year 1650. She married, Jan. 29, 1646, JONATHAN GILBERT of Hartford, an early settler there. His name often occurs upon the public records, which show that he was a man of enterprise and influence. He sometimes represented the town in the General Court, was collector of the customs at Hartford, and was Marshal of the Colony;—the latter office corresponding to that of high-sheriff. He also rendered important service to the Colony in the difficulties with the Indians; acting as interpreter, and being often selected, on account of his bravery, as the leader in emergencies of danger and importance. He was extensively engaged in the trade and coasting business of the young colonies, and acquired great wealth, for that day. He died Dec. 10, 1682, in the 64th year of his age, leaving an estate of nearly £2500.

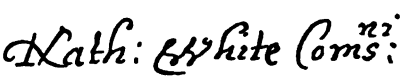
Being dissatisfied with the legacy left him by his father, he petitioned the General Court for some further provision from his father's estate. A number of curious documents connected with this application are preserved among the State Papers, at Hartford. ("Private Controversies," Vol. II., pp. 129—137.) He d. Feb. 1, 1698, æ. 49. 3. Captain NATHANIEL WHITE, son of Elder John, (1) was born in England, about 1629, three years before his father came to New England. He was about seven years old when the family removed from Cambridge to Hartford.

In 1650 or 1651, when about twenty-one years old, he removed to Middletown, on the Connecticut River, being one of the original proprietors and first settlers of that town. His homelot was in that part of Middletown formerly called "Upper Houses," and afterwards "Upper Middletown," now constituting the town of Cromwell. His dwelling-house was in the lower part of the village, on the street that lies between the Middlesex turnpike and the Connecticut River.

He early acquired great influence, and was among the leading men of that section of the Colony. In civil life he was almost constantly employed in some of the various town offices, and also statedly represented the town in the Legislature—or General Court, as it was at first called—of the Colony. He was first chosen in 1659, when about thirty years of age, and from 1661 to 1710, a period of fifty years, he was chosen Deputy once every year, and often twice; the Legislature then meeting semi-annually, in May and October of each year, and a new election being held for each session. The only exception to his regular election was in the year 1688, when, in consequence of the usurpation of Sir Edmund Andross, there were no elections by the people. He was elected a representative from Middletown eighty-five times, and was eighty-one years old when last chosen. Very few instances can be found of so long an official life dependent on annual popular elections; probably no other, in which the same political community, by a majority of all its voters, has elected the same individual its representative in the Legislature of the State eighty-five times. Such facts as this have secured for Connecticut the appellation of the "land of steady habits."

In 1669 Nathaniel White was appointed by the Legislature a magistrate and commissioner for Middletown, and in 1684 for Middletown, Haddam, and the district of Meriden; and he held local courts for these places. In military life he rose through successive grades to the rank of Captain, the title of which office he carried with him through life. The following is a fac-simile of his signature as commissioner, in 1695.



It is evident from the nature of the public services he rendered, traces of which are found in the records of the town and of the Colony, that he was a man of ability and education, and that he deserved the great and long-continued confidence reposed in him by his fellow-citizens. The Rev. Dr. Field, in his address on the two-hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Middletown, says of him, that "he was a man of high religious character and sound judgment."

He died Aug. 27, 1711, "aged about 82," as the inscription on his monument informs us. His grave is in Middletown city, in the burying-ground near the river. In his will, which is dated Aug. 16, 1711, after some other bequests, he gives one-fourth of his undivided lands "to remain for the use of the Publick School already agreed upon in the Town of Middletown, forever." Respecting certain other provisions of his will, he makes this statement: "And the reason why I say my daughters shall have each of them one-third of what moveable household goods was in being when my former wife dyed, is because I intend what my now wife hath gained by her Industry, and what she brought with her to me, should be at her own dispose." The Inventory of his estate amounted to £927. 11*s.* 5*d.* He owned about 1500 acres of land, and was for a long time the second in property in the town.

He married, 1st, ELIZABETH ———, who was the mother of his children. Her family name and her original residence have not been ascertained. Her grave-stone, which stands by that of her husband, and was probably erected after his death, says that she "died in the year 1690, aged about 65 years."*

He married, 2d, Mrs. MARTHA MOULD, widow of Hugh Mould of New London, Conn., and dau. of John Coit and Mary [Jenners?]. Two of her daughters had married sons of Captain White. She died April 14, 1730, "aged about 86." This is the age given on her grave-stone, at the Upper Houses. The town record says, "in ye 77th year of her age," which is doubtless an error.

4. Sergeant JOHN WHITE, Jun., son of Elder John, (1) settled in Hatfield, Mass. His homelot was on the east side of the street, the fifth from the south end of the homelots, as they were originally laid out. He was buried in Hatfield, Sept. 15, 1665. His age is not known, but it was less than 35 years. The inventory of his estate, amounting to £313, includes a house and homelot at Hatfield, and also at Hartford, Conn. It is probable that he resided at Hartford till within a year or two of his death, and that his children were born there.

He married SARAH BUNCE of Hartford, dau. of Thomas and Sarah Bunce. After the death of her husband, the widow Sarah White married Nicholas Worthington of Hatfield. She died June 20, 1676. Mr. Worthington again married, and died Sept. 6, 1683. (An account of the descendants of Nicholas Worthington may be found in Goodwin's "Genealogical Notes.")

5. Lieutenant DANIEL WHITE, son of Elder John, (1) was probably born in Hartford, Conn., as early as 1639. He settled in Hatfield, Mass., about the year 1662, as appears from the following entries on the town record of Hadley. "Jan. 21: 1660: 61. This day Daniel White had a hundred pound lot given him beyond the River, and his father John White Ingages for him." Dec. 12, 1661, there was a renewal of the grant to Daniel White, "provided he be resident on his allotments in March next." His homelot was on the west side of Hatfield Street, the fourth lot south of the Mill Lane, or road leading westerly. Other lands were allotted to him, and the records of Hatfield show that he was a farmer. He was frequently called into the service of the town. Before the division of Hadley, he was chosen a constable in 1666, and one of the selectmen in 1670. The town of Hatfield was incorporated in 1670, but the records of the town officers previous to 1677 are mostly lost. During the twenty years after 1678, Daniel White was eight times chosen one of the selectmen of Hatfield. He occasionally held other offices, and was often appointed on committees for attending to various town affairs which called for the exercise of discretion and sound judgment. He was also active in the ecclesiastical affairs of the town. The title of Lieutenant is first given him on the records in Dec., 1692. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph in 1701.

He died July 27, 1713, being probably not far from 75 years of age. By his will, dated July 11, 1713, he gave £4 to the church in Hatfield, and constituted his only surviving son, Daniel, his executor. Previous to his death he had given a part of his land to his son, Daniel, and to his daughter Hannah; but he left a large estate for those times. The inventory amounted to £363, not including the homestead and some other property, which was appraised in 1719, after the death of his widow, at nearly £300.

He married, Nov. 1, 1661, SARAH CROW, daughter of John Crow and Elizabeth Goodwin. Her father was an early settler of Hartford and Hadley, and became one of the largest landholders in the colony of Connecticut. Her mother was the only child of Elder William and Susannah Goodwin. Elder Goodwin was a fellow-passenger with Elder John White, in the ship Lyon, and was one of the leaders in the settlement of Hadley. Sarah Crow was born at Hartford, March 1, 1647, and was but 14 years and 8 months old at the time of her marriage. She was one of seven daughters, who married into some of the best families in the valley of the Connecticut. A high authority in such matters has said, "Those Crow girls made smart women." Mrs. Sarah White died at Hatfield, June 26, 1719, æ. 72. Her inventory shows the following list of articles in her wardrobe. She was not only well supplied, but seems to have been a little extravagant, for that day, for one residing in a small town.

7. Ensign JACOB WHITE, youngest son of Elder John, (1) was born in Hartford, Conn., Oct. 8, 1645. He was less than fourteen years of age when his father removed to Hadley, Mass., and probably accompanied the family thither. Soon after reaching his majority, he returned to Hartford, and settled on his father's old homestead. He was admitted a freeman of the Colony in 1668. The nature of the various public offices to which he was called, at Hartford, indicates that he was a man of character and intelligence. In 1669 he was chosen a land-surveyor for the town, and again in 1700. He also served four times as Townsman, or Selectman, in the years 1682, 1687, 1691, and 1696. In 1693 he was chosen one of a committee to prepare an answer to a petition from the inhabitants who lived east of the River. In military life he reached the rank of Ensign. The exact time of his death is not known, but it was probably in the early part of the year 1701, when he was 55 years of age. The inventory of his estate was dated May 29, 1701, and amounted to £652. He left no children surviving him.

He married, before 1683, ELIZABETH BUNCE of Hartford, dau. of Thomas and Sarah Bunce, and sister of his brother John's wife. She died at Hartford in 1716.

NOTE. On the Record of baptisms in the First Church in Middletown, under the date of Nov. 2, 1679, is found this entry: "Eliz: White (daughter of Nathll & Eliz: his wife;) Mary (daughter of Jacob & Mary) White, are baptized." The conjecture of a collaborator is doubtless correct, that this is an error of the recorder, for "Mary (daughter of Jacob & Mary) Cornwell." No record of the baptism of Mary Cornwell is found, while the baptisms of the succeeding children of this family are duly recorded.

Third Generation and Children.

DESCENDANTS OF CAPT. NATHANIEL WHITE.

8. Dea. NATHANIEL WHITE, son of Capt. Nathaniel, (3) was born at Middletown, Upper Houses, Conn., July 7, 1652. About the time of his marriage he removed to Hadley, Mass., where he settled upon the original homelot of his grandfather, Elder John White. He took the oath of allegiance in Hadley, February, 1679. The records show that there were but few larger landholders in the town. He gave a large part of his property to his children during his life time, so that the inventory of his estate, after his decease, was small. He left no will.

He was frequently called into the service of the town. In 1687 he was elected constable, and between the years 1684 and 1715 he was 9 or 10 times chosen one of the selectmen. He held the office of tything-man for several years after he was seventy-five years of age. The records of the Church in Hadley having been destroyed by fire, in 1766, it is not known when he was chosen to the office of Deacon. The title is first given him, in the town records, in 1697. He lived to a good old age, and died at Hadley, Feb. 15, 1742, æ. 89 years and 7 months.

He married, March 28, 1678, ELIZABETH SAVAGE of Middletown, dau. of John and Elizabeth Savage. She was born June 3, 1655, and died Jan. 30, 1742, æ. 86 years and 8 months. She died sixteen days before her husband, their married life having continued 63 years, 10 mos. and 2 days.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN WHITE, JUNIOR.

13. Dea. JOHN WHITE, only son of Sergt. John, jun., (4) was born about the year 1663. He settled in Hatfield, Mass., as a farmer, on the homelot which had belonged to his father, and for a period of 40 years took a leading part in the affairs of that town. Besides being frequently appointed to the minor offices, he was 20 times chosen one of the selectmen of the town, between the years 1689 and 1727. For 7 or 8 years his name was first on the list. The title of Ensign is first given him upon the records in 1707, and that of Deacon in 1713. A fac-simile of his autograph in 1701 is here given.

In February, 1742, he sold his house and homelot to his son-in-law, Daniel White, (Family 36,) who removed the same year from Bolton, Conn., to Hatfield. He probably lived with his son-in-law for a few years, as he was still a resident of Hatfield, Oct. 30, 1746. But he seems to have removed, near the close of his life, to the house of his son, Rev. David White, of Hardwick, Mass., where he died Nov. 13, 1750, æ. 87.

DESCENDANTS OF LIEUT. DANIEL WHITE.

14. Capt. DANIEL WHITE, only surviving son of Lieut. Daniel, (5) was born in Hatfield, Mass., July 4, 1671. He first settled in Hatfield, but in 1704 or 1705 removed to Windsor, Conn., where he was engaged in trade. It does not appear that he held town offices, though he was sometimes appointed on committees to manage important business. His home was on the "north side of the rivulet;"—Farmington River. He was Captain of the "troopers." He died June 22, 1726, æ. 55. The following is a fac-simile of his signature in 1709.

By his will, dated June 9, 1726, he made the following disposition of his estate: To his wife, Elizabeth,—besides "her dowry as the law allows,"—"my plate, or silver utensils, viz. one silver tankard, two silver cups, and all my silver spoons:" To his eldest son, Daniel, a house and certain lands in Hatfield; other lands there, to his youngest son, Oliver: "To my son, Thomas White, my cloak. Also, I give and bequeath and remitt to him all that he the said Thomas, oweth or is indebted to me." This indebtedness was for his education, and perhaps for lands in Bolton: To his son Joel, his house and lot in Bolton, with his whole right in lands in that Township: To his sons Elisha, Simeon, and Seth, his lands in Hebron, to be equally divided between them: To his daughter Sarah Griswold, £20, besides what had been given her before: To his daughters Lucy and Elizabeth, £50 each. The remainder of his estate was to be equally divided among all his children. His estate was appraised at about £2000, of which nearly £875 was in Hatfield. The currency of that day was much depreciated, but this was a good estate, for those times.

He married, 1st, SARAH BISSELL of Windsor, dau. of Thomas Bissell and Abigail Moore. Her grandfather, John Bissell, an early settler in Windsor, and much occupied with public affairs, died Oct. 3, 1677, æ. 86. She was born Jan. 8, 1672, and died at Hatfield, July 18, 1703, æ. 31.

He married, 2d, July 6, 1704, ANN BISSELL of Windsor, a cousin of his former wife. She was the dau. of John Bissell, jun., and of [Isabel?] Mason. She was born April 28, 1675, and died at Windsor, April 21, 1709, æ. 34.

He married, 3d, April 25, 1710, ELIZABETH BLISS of Norwich, Conn., dau. of Samuel Bliss and Anna Elderkin. Soon after the death of her husband, she returned to Norwich, where she resided till her death, with the exception of a short time about 1746, when her residence was in Bolton. She was born Feb. 28, 1687, and died July 2, 1757, æ. 71.

8. Seth, b. March 6, 1713. He settled in Providence, R. I., but removed to Plainfield, Conn., about ten years before his death, which occurred in Jan., 1758, in the 45th year of his age. By his will, dated Jan. 1, and proved Jan. 5, 1758, it appears that he left no children, as he gave all his property to his wife, Elizabeth, who was living in Sept., 1763. She was probably a widow at her marriage with Seth White, and was perhaps his second wife. From the inventory of his estate, which was small, it appears that he was a shoemaker.
9. Lucy, b. June 16, 1715; m. 1st, Joseph French of Norwich, afterwards of Coventry, where he d. Aug. 11, 1740, æ. 30 yrs. and 1 day. She m. 2d, April 23, 1741, Josiah Wolcott of Coventry, Andover Society, who rem. to Saybrook, Conn., about 1750, and lived there for several years; but the family disappears from Saybrook. (On the Coventry town record is this entry: "Josiah Wolcott and y^e^ wedow Lucy French were married April 23, 1740." But this is pretty certainly an error for 1741.) She had, by her first husband, 1. Daniel, d. Aug. 7, 1740; 2. Lucy, d. Aug. 12, 1740; 3. Ezekiel, d. Aug. 10, 1740; 4. Tryphena, b. May 30, 1739, d. Aug. 2, 1740. By her second husband, 5. Lucy, b. Jan. 19, 1742; 6 Anna, b. 35. Rev. DAVID WHITE, youngest son of Dea. John, (13) was born in Hatfield, Mass., July 1, 1710. He graduated at Yale College in 1730, and was ordained Pastor of the church in Hardwick, Mass., Nov. 17, 1736. The church, consisting of 12 members, was organized on that day. During the forty-seven years of his ministry there, he received 411 persons to full communion, and 77 under the half-way covenant. He baptized 1275 adults and infants, and married 316 couples. His salary was small, never more than $200 per annum; yet he gave his children a good education, his two sons having graduated at Harvard College. Allen's Biographical Dictionary says of him, that "he was esteemed and very useful." He died at Hardwick, Jan. 6, 1784, æ. 73.

37. Rev. THOMAS WHITE, son of Capt. Daniel, (14) was born in Hatfield, Mass., July 10, 1701. A part of his childhood was spent in the family of his grandfather, in Hatfield. Perhaps he did not remove to Windsor until after his grandfather's death. He graduated at Yale College in 1720, in the same class with Pres. Jonathan Edwards, and taught the Grammar School in Northampton, Mass., for three years, commencing with 1721. About this time he was admitted to the church in that place, and probably pursued his theological studies, while teaching, with the Rev. Solomon Stoddard, the most noted divine in that vicinity. His first ministerial labors, of which any notice is found, were at Worcester, Mass., where he was elected pastor of the First Church, Aug. 24, 1724. The town, however, did not concur in the choice, but appointed a committee "to address Mr. White for his further assistance in the work of the Gospel." (Lincoln's History of Worcester, p. 167.) He removed soon after to Bolton, Conn., and was ordained the first pastor of the Church in that place, Oct. 28, 1725. During his ministry of more than 37 years, he received to the church 310 persons, of whom 95 were from other churches. The number of persons baptized was 914. The Rev. George Colton, his immediate successor in the pastoral office, thus characterizes his life and ministry: "He was a sound, orthodox preacher, a friend of peace and order." He died Feb. 22, 1763, æ. 61. He resided a short distance east of the principal street, on the north side of the road leading to Andover. The house in which he dwelt was occupied by his successors in the ministry, till about the year 1845.

He married, June 17, 1725, MARTHA HUNT of Northampton, Mass., born April 18, 1699, dau. of Jonathan Hunt and Martha Williams. After the death of her husband, she married, 2d, Aug. 15, 1764, Col. Thomas Welles of Glastenbury, Conn., who died May 14, 1767, æ. 75. After his death, she lived with her eldest dau., in Somers, Conn., and died there, Feb. 17, 1784, æ. nearly 85.

38. Capt. JOEL WHITE, son of Capt. Daniel, (14) was born in Windsor, Conn., April 6, 1705. He settled in Bolton, Conn., as early as 1725, on lands which were soon after bequeathed to him by his father. He probably first lived on the west side of the street, nearly opposite the burying-ground. In February, 1747, he bought of Francis Smith the place on the south-east corner of the main street and the road to Andover, "fronting near the meeting-house." This was his home for more than forty years, and the large elms now standing there are said to have been planted by his own hands. He was a merchant, engaged in an extensive business, and was a large landholder. The records of Bolton show that he bought lands there more than eighty times, and his name appears frequently upon the records of several other towns. At the time of his death he owned over 500 acres of land, although he had a few years previously given a farm to each of his four surviving sons.

He was a justice of the peace, and took a prominent part in the affairs of the town. In 1728 he was chosen town treasurer; he was frequently constable and collector, and was eight times chosen one of the selectmen, between the years 1738 and 1766. He was often the moderator of the annual town meetings, and from 1760 to 1781 was commonly the person selected for this service. He was one of the first representatives from Bolton to the Legislature, in October, 1750, and was frequently re-elected, until October, 1774, when he had represented the town at twenty-six sessions. Though advanced in life at the time when the Colonies were struggling for independence, he was an ardent and self-denying patriot. In 1777 he was twice chosen a member of the "Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety," and was once its chairman. From his will, and from the inventory of his estate, it appears that in the early part of the War he loaned over £3,000 to the State of Connecticut, and to the United States, a part of this sum being paid in the depreciated currency of those times. The nominal value of the "Public Securities" held by him at his death, with the interest that had accrued thereon, was about £5,000, or nearly equal to the appraised value of the remainder of his estate. These securities were divided among his heirs, who are supposed to have realized but a very small percentage upon their nominal value. His inventory amounts to a little more than £10,000. He died June 28, 1789, æ. 84. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph, from a signature in 1757.

The high social position of his family may be inferred from the fact that his five daughters married into families of great respectability: the husbands of four of them were graduates of Colleges.

He married, 1st, RUTH ———, who died Sept. 4, 1735, æ. 32. This is the date found in the town record. On the stone tablet inscribed to the memory of Joel White, Esq., and his four wives, the date is Sept. 15.

He married, 2d, Jan. 22, 1736, RUTH DART of Bolton, dau. of Daniel Dart, sen., and Elizabeth Douglass, and granddaughter of Richard Dart of New London. She was the youngest of eleven children, was born Aug. 26, 1711, and died Aug. 29, 1760, æ. 49.

He married, 3d, April 8, 1761, Mrs. EUNICE WOLCOTT, widow of Roger Wolcott, jun., Esq., of East Windsor, Conn., and dau. of John and Joanna Colton of Longmeadow, Mass. By her first husband, Ens. John Ely, 3d, of West Springfield, Mass., she was the mother of Justin Ely, who married Ruth White, dau. of her third husband. She was born Feb. 22, 1706, and died March 29, 1778, æ. 72. She was buried at West Springfield.

He married, 4th, 1778, Mrs. SARAH CONANT, widow of [Shubael?] Conant, Esq., of Mansfield, Conn. It is supposed that her family name was Avery, and that she was originally of Groton, Conn. Her first husband was David Sluman of Lebanon. Her second husband was Hon. Zebulon West of Tolland. Her son, Dr. Jeremiah West, married Amelia Ely, dau. of Capt. Joel White's third wife. Mrs. Sarah White died Nov. 17, 1785, æ. 66. (Grave-stone, 1788: an error.)

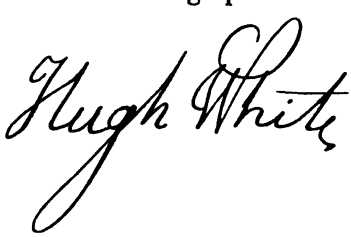
69. Hon. HUGH WHITE, youngest son of Hugh, (26) was born in Upper Middletown, Jan. 25, 1733. He settled there, and was one of the selectmen of Middletown from 1779 to 1783. He was a commissary in the army, during a part of the Revolutionary War. Soon after the close of the War, he became the Pioneer of the settlements in Central New York. In May, 1784, he left Middletown, with four sons who had arrived at manhood, a daughter, and daughter-in-law, and founded a settlement at Sedaghquate, a few miles from the present city of Utica. In the January following he took thither his wife and the remainder of his family. Several of his relatives, with others from Middletown and its vicinity, quickly followed; and the new settlement, under the name of "Whitestown," soon became widely known as the place in which the emigration from New England centered. The hardships and perils encountered by these early settlers can scarcely be conceived of, by those who now visit that thickly-peopled region. The whole country was in the wildness of nature. The nearest mill was at Palatine, forty miles distant. The hostility of the Indian Tribes had hitherto rendered the settlement of that region impossible, and at the close of the War the whole central and western portions of the State were without civilized inhabitants. It was therefore necessary that the Pioneer of the new settlement should conciliate the favor of the Indians. In his intercourse with them he was frank and decided. On one occasion, an Indian Chief demanded of Mr.

White, as a test of his professed confidence, that he would permit him to take to his wigwam a little grand-daughter, then playing about the house. The Chief promised to keep the child safely, and to bring her home again the next day. The child was entrusted to him; but it was not until the approach of night, when fears of treachery had almost overcome her mother, that she was returned, finely arrayed in Indian dress, with many ornaments. This incident is said to have contributed much toward establishing a lasting friendship between the new settlers and the neighboring Indians. (See Lectures of Wm. Tracy, Esq.; also, Historical Collections of New York, p. 379.)

In 1788 the town of "Whitestown" was organized. It included in its limits all the State of New York lying westward of a line passing through Utica, and reaching from the southern boundary of the State to the St. Lawrence River. This territory had 6000 inhabitants in 1792, and Judge White lived to see it containing a population of over 300,000. At the organization of Herkimer County, Mr. White was appointed a Judge. He afterwards held the same office in the new County of Oneida. He died April 16, 1812, æ. 79. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph.



He married, 1st, Aug. 23, 1753, MARY CLARK of Middletown, dau. of Daniel and Mary Clark. She was born Feb. 10, 1734, and died about the year 1774.

He married, 2d, Mrs. LOIS DAVENPORT of New Hartford, Conn., widow of Rev. Ebenezer Davenport of Greenwich, Conn., and dau. of Jonathan Marsh and Elizabeth Loomis. She died at Whitestown, April 13, 1829, æ. 86.

APPENDIX.

I. Extracts from Records at Chelmsford, England.*

THE Registers of Wills, and the Parish Registers of births, marriages and deaths, in England, about the time of the first settlement of this country, are the principal sources of information respecting the pedigree of such American families as are descended from the middle classes of the mother country. Every extract from these Registers has, therefore, a value to the American genealogist, and is worth preserving in a permanent form. With this view, the following extracts from the Registers of Chelmsford, in Essex County, in old England, are here inserted. They were obtained by H. G. SOMERBY, Esq., the well-known and successful investigator of the English genealogies of American families, with the hope of finding in them some trace of the lineage of the patriarch, John White, who is commemorated in the preceding pages. Although the effort was not successful for this object, yet it is hoped that these materials may be valuable to other families of the name of White.

FROM THE REGISTRY OF WILLS, AT CHELMSFORD.

Thomas White of Chelmsford, vintner. Will dated January 28, 160$\frac{3}{4}$: proved March 16, 160$\frac{3}{5}$. III. Summary.

THE following Summary and Tables include those persons only whose names appear in the preceding pages, or of whom some other definite information is given. A few descendants of Elder John White, but who derive the name, by intermarriage, from some other family of Whites, are classed with the descendants of other names.

The whole number of persons enumerated in this volume, belonging to the Family of Elder John White, is 5,074. Of this number, 2,850 bear the name of White, and 2,224 bear other names. The following Table shows the whole number of descendants in each generation, and also the number belonging to the line of each son of John White.

The following Table shows the number of descendants named White, in each generation. Also, the number in the line of each son, and each grandson, of John White.

		Daniel,	11	34	90	200	200	16	552

Some interesting comparative results may be obtained from this Table. Of the descendants bearing the name of White, those of Nathaniel are nearly three-fourths of the whole number, while those of Daniel are more than twice as many as those of his brother John. There are still greater inequalities in the numbers descended from the several sons of Nathaniel. Two of these sons, Daniel and Joseph, married sisters. The descendants of Daniel are twenty-three times as many as those of Joseph, although the list of Daniel's descendants is quite imperfect, while that of Joseph's is supposed to be complete. In the line of Joseph, there are but two males of the seventh generation, to perpetuate the name. It should be observed, however, that the grandchildren of Nathaniel, having other names than White, were fewer than those of Daniel; and, in the next generation, those of Daniel were fewer than those of Joseph. So that if all the descendants were traced out, in the families of every name, the inequality in each case would be much less than it appears above. Other lines of the Family may be readily compared, by the aid of the Tables here given.

The number of descendants of other names than White, enumerated in this volume, appears below. This Table shows the number in each generation, and the number in the line of each son and grandson of John White.

DESCENDANTS BEARING OTHER NAMES THAN WHITE.

		3d Gen.	4th Gen.	5th Gen.	6th Gen.	7th Gen.	8th Gen.	9th Gen.	10th Gen.	Totals.

		Daniel,		25	55	139	160	7	..	386

In the 4th generation there were only twenty-three who perpetuated the name. Each one of these 23 is represented in the foregoing pages by descendants belonging to the 8th or 9th generation.

The volume contains some definite account of the children belonging to 1,000 families; 542 families of Whites, and 458 families of which the mothers were Whites. Those families of which a remoter female ancestor was named White, are not included in this enumeration. The two following Tables show the number of families in each generation, and in the line of each son of John White. The families are counted in the generations to which the parents belong.

The following comparative Statement shows the interval between the births of the oldest and youngest persons of each generation.

Gen.	Eldest.	Date of Birth.	Youngest.	Date of Birth.	Years Difference.
2d.	Mary, (p. 20,)	b. about 1627.	Jacob, (p. 20,)	b. Oct. 8, 1645.	18
3d.	Nathaniel, (p. 27,)	b. July 7, 1652.	Mehitable, (p. 32,)	b. Mar. 14, 1683.	31
4th.	Elizabeth, (p. 35,)	b. Jan. 13, 1679.	Oliver, (p. 44,)	b. Mar. 26, 1720.	41
5th.	Moses, (p. 46,)	b. Feb. 7, 1710.	Joseph, (p. 68,)	b. Sept. 2, 1764.	54
6th.	Joel, (p. 72,)	b. about 1738.	Addison H., (p. 108,)	b. Aug. 23, 1803.	65
7th.	Elijah, (p. 129,)	b. June 12, 1767.	John Jay, (p. 178,)	b. Sept. 7, 1854.	87
8th.	Theodore, (p. 191,)	b. Feb. 1, 1794.	Annie M., (p. 207,)	b. Mar. 23, 1859.	65
9th.	Francis H., (p. 256,)	b. Jan. 11, 1827.	Le Roy A., (p. 257,)	b. Sept. 27, 1859.	32

It should be observed that very many of the 8th generation, and most of the 9th, are not yet born. There are doubtless a few descendants of the name, who belong to the 10th generation, but none have been reported. Of the descendants of other names, the first belonging to the 10th generation was William S. Skilton, (p. 268,) born August, 1847.

It appears from the above statement, that seven generations were added to the Family in two hundred years. Also, that the persons of the same generation were not all cotemporaries. The youngest child of the 5th generation was born less than three years before the oldest child of the 7th; while the youngest of the 7th generation was born 27 years later than the oldest of the 9th.

The duration of each generation is shown by the following Statement.

Gen.	Date of earliest Birth.	Latest known date of Death.	Years Duration.
1st.	JOHN, (p. 13,) b. about 1600.	JOHN, (p. 20,) d. Jan., 1684.	84
2d.	Mary, (p. 20,) b. about 1627.	Daniel, (p. 29,) d. July 27, 1713.	86
3d.	Nathaniel, (p. 27,) b. July 7, 1652.	Esther, (p. 31,) d. Sept. 7, 1766.	114
4th.	Elizabeth, (p. 35,) b. Jan. 13, 1679.	Oliver, (p. 68,) d. Sept. 13, 1801.	122
5th.	Moses, (p. 46,) b. Feb. 7, 1710.	Jerusha, (p. 67,) d. Dec. 1, 1839.	129

From a comparison of the foregoing Statements, it appears that John White lived five years after the birth of his oldest great-grandchild, and that each succeeding generation reached unto the third or fourth below it. Different members of the 4th generation were cotemporary with parts of each generation from the 1st to the 8th, and members of the 5th generation were cotemporary with parts of each generation from the 2d to the 9th. A considerable number of the 6th generation are still living, but nearly all of the persons now in active life belong to the 7th and 8th generations.

The whole number of descendants named White may be estimated from the foregoing data. The history of a large number of families shows that the ratio of increase in the early generations was nearly the same with that upon which are based similar estimates in the "Shattuck Memorials;" assuming seven as the average number of children in each family, and that two-thirds of the whole number live to be married. There were probably about 140 families of which the parents belonged to the 6th generation. Upon the above ratio of increase, there would be 980 descendants (named White) of the 7th generation, 2,289 of the 8th generation, and 5,341 of the 9th generation. The whole number in the first 8 generations would thus appear to be about 4,000. The descendants now living, with those of past generations, are probably more than that number. It will be seen by the first Table, on page 284, that the ratio of increase varies greatly in different branches of the Family.

A similar estimate may be made of the whole number of descendants of every name. The 170 great-grandchildren of John White would thus be multiplied to 17,213 in the 7th generation, to 80,325 in the 8th generation, and to 374,850 in the 9th generation. Perhaps one-fourth should be deducted from these numbers, to allow for intermarriages between descendants. There would still remain about 75,000 as the number of descendants in the first 8 generations, or the whole number of persons that may be supposed to have sprung from Elder John White, down to the present time.

These estimates are presented as only an approximation to the truth. The ratio of increase in the later generations is doubtless much smaller than that here employed.

The Third Part of the Index contains references to the names of about 2,200 persons connected with the Family by marriage.

INDEX.

PART First of this Index contains the christian names of descendants surnamed White. Part Second, the whole names of descendants having other names than White, with a few of that name, who derive the name from some other ancestor than Elder John White. Part Third contains the whole names of persons who have married into the Family. Part Fourth, the surnames of other persons mentioned in this volume. The names of descendants who are supposed to have died before reaching the age of ten years are omitted.

The number on the right of a name refers to the page. References to the name of the same person are connected by a hyphen. In Parts First and Second, the figure on the left of a name denotes the generation to which the person belonged.

☞ The attention of those who consult this volume is directed to the list of Corrections and Additions, pages 281-283. That list was printed in the Appendix, rather than in its appropriate place, at the close of the volume, in order that the necessary references might be made to it, in the Index.

The following corrections have been received since the foregoing list was printed.

Page 36, Family 9. The wife of this John White (son of Capt. Nathaniel) was probably MARY REEVE of Hartford, b. July 31, 1665, dau. of Robert Reeve and Elizabeth Nott.

Page 222, Family 330, read thus: 3. Calvin, b. March 18, 1845; 4. Thomas Ewing, b. April 23, 1847; 5. George B., b. Jan. 28, 1850; 6. Clara, b. Jan. 14, 1852.

LIBRARY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NOTE.

THE results of the efforts formerly made to trace the English ancestry of Elder John White have been given in the Appendix. Since the printing of this volume was commenced, some new interest in the inquiry has been awakened, by the discovery of an old coat of arms, engraved some time during the last century, and used for a book-label by one of his descendants. This coat of arms is that of a Mayor of the City of London, in Queen Elizabeth's time, whose name was John White, and whose pedigree can be traced several generations further back. Researches now in progress, with a view to ascertain whether any connection exists between our Patriarch, John, and the family of the Mayor, have not yet yielded any decisive results. The John White who was Mayor in 1563, was cotemporary, if not identical, with the grandfather of our Patriarch. Nothing has yet been discovered inconsistent with the conjecture that they were identical; and those of the descendants of our John who are not satisfied to derive their origin from so good and useful a man as he was, but must have an English pedigree, may adopt this conjecture, for want of one supported by better evidence.

One great difficulty in the way of discovering the English origin of the family is found in the fact that the name of White was a common one, in England. This fact appears not only from an examination of English records, but also from the number of persons bearing that name, who early emigrated to New England. Mr. Savage, the well-known genealogist, finds that there were about twenty-seven men named White, who came to New England before 1692, of whom it is probable that at least twenty became heads of distinct families in this country. The name has been so common in Massachusetts and Connecticut as to have much increased the labor and perplexity of preparing these Memorials. In numerous instances, persons named White, descended from some other ancestor, and not unfrequently, those bearing the same christian names, have lived in the same towns with those descended from Elder John White, and at the same time with them. The following are some of the heads of families of that name, who have lived in the same towns with Elder John's descendants, named in the preceding pages. In Massachusetts, Henry was living in Hadley in 1684. Thomas, from Lancaster, married a daughter of Thomas of South Hadley; (p. 72.) John was living in West Springfield soon after the death of the John named on page 57. In Connecticut, the multiplicity of families has been still more perplexing. In Lebanon there were Nathaniel, from Norwich in 1705, or later; James, who is found again in Coventry, in 1732; and Jonathan, from Weymouth, Mass., about 1751. In Hebron there are found, Joseph, who came from Oxford, Mass., in 1722; Ebenezer, from Lebanon about 1727; and Obadiah, Samuel, and James, who married in 1746, 1747, and 1748. In Chatham, (East Hampton Society,) Joseph, cotemporary with Dea. Joseph of Chatham, (p. 51,) had a son of the same name, and also a grandson Joseph, who married Ruth Churchill; (p. 50.) There was also a Jedediah of Chatham, at the same time that the Jedediah named on page 80 was living in Upper Middletown, on the opposite side of the river. Similar cases since the period of the Revolution are too numerous to be specified.

Note upon page 322.

A very thorough examination of English authorities shows that the Sir John White who was Mayor of London had several sons, but no grandson, named White, who lived to maturity.
